

Part 1:

Dodo opened his eyes. He was out at sea. The drenched oak floorboards rattled against his feet. Stinging salt water pierced Dodo's eyes as shots of bitter fluid surrounded the young boy's pupils.

Dodo was as scared as a stray puppy when he realized he was standing on the very ship everyone was afraid of. 'The Assassin'. His eyes pursued the gloomy, old ship. Dodo needed to get out of this place as it belonged to the one and only evil Captain Scallywag. When Dodo stood up he tumbled forward and backwards, hardly able to stay still. Finally, Dodo got control of his balance and went off to the plans rooms. He opened the creaking door breathing in one last smell of the natural salty sea water fragrance. I stepped in and saw a big paper that said. Operation; capture Master Dodorus Van-McCurie. That was him! He read the plan and apparently, Dodo was to be taken to Virbusty central, a city far away from the mansion he lived in.

Without a moment's hesitation, Dodo tried to hatch a plan to get off at Scully shore where he knew some friends. Suddenly, Dodo heard footstep[s coming from outside. He rapidly hid himself behind the barrels of beer. Two muscular men came in. They were patched with tattoos from head to toe and had piercings in the most unusual places. Dodo's heartbeat thumped as I forced myself from making a single sound.

"Oh Brunberg, I wish there was a cheese shop at Virbusty Central." one of the men dreamed.

"Keep dreaming Filth Finger, as if Captain Scallywag would allow you to get cheese." Brunberg teased

"Well just to say, my wish came true, Captain said if there was a cheese shop on Trapbuster terrace, Valley bay or scully shore, he would take me there because I captured the Night howler." Filth Finger replied.

Another man came in and told the men to go scrub the deck. They all then left. Dodo quickly got some paints and paper and drew up a fake cheese commercial. He attached it to a string and made it a flying billboard. Dodo then released it from the ships east. His dream had come. The ship turned and arrived at Scully shore.

adding more descriptive words in this paragraph would have made this a lot more colourful

The crew ran off and so did Dodo. He hid in one of the barrels, which the men were going to use to fill with cheese. Dodo tiptoed out and headed to his friend's house. So Dodo was now safe from the scallywag crew. Phew!

Thanks for submitting your piece on time! First off, I noticed that as you gradually progressed in writing your piece, there were lesser and lesser descriptive words that exhibit personification, and high-impact emotions. You have to keep in mind that consistency is key in making a good writing work. Besides that, the content of your piece is already great as it highlights action and adventure. Just keep in mind with the suggestions and you should be good to go!

Mark (47/50)