PART 2

1. Stage work and acting has been a part of me for almost six years now. I began taking some drama classes at the age of four and at the time, I almost wanted to quit acting since I found it a bit tiring at first. However, after seeing Emma Watson acting from ten years old up to her present age, her work motivated me to continue working and building on my acting career. I starred in two films during my erly ^{early} years of acting, Little Monsters (2019), and The Egg (Jane Cho). I would like to thank my mother for signing me up for acting and my eldest sister for helping me with my movie auditions.

2. When I was in Year Three, I enjoyed learning in ⁱⁿ the subject French. Our teacher even encouraged us to learn more by giving us lollies as rewards if we did well in class. Our French teacher always used interesting methods to learn and memorise the words. I saw how my friend Mia worked hard in French to get the Year Four French award and her work motivated me to work harder in French lessons. At the end of the year, I was awarded with the best performance in French in Grade Three. I would like to thanks ^{thank} my French teacher for teaching me throughout my time I was learning French and I would also like to thank my peers for always supporting me and helping me.

Is playing the piano your achievement? Please write here if you have joined piano concerts.

3. I enjoy playing and listening to music because all the different styles can affect my mood and my mindset. I was only four years old when I was introduced to my first ^{first} musical instrument: the piano. When I first set my hands on the piano keys, and looked at the music, I struggled to play the notes and adjust to the hand movement. But after seeing how my sister played the piano so well after practising more and more, I wanted to become like her. I thank all of my piano teachers for guiding me when I couldn't figure out how to play certain sections and also my sister for helping me progress through piano.

Note:

This is a good response to the interview questions. However, I want you to realise that you have to provide more details. For example, you have said that you starred in those two plays/movie. However, there is no follow up to that. Instead, write the role that you are portraying there. Another, in your third achievement, write there if you have participated in piano concerts in school, national, and international levels. Lastly, take a closer look of your spellings before submitting this because there are a few mistakes, and if you won't proofread this, the interviewers will not appreciate this because it might seem that you did not pour efforts into this.
