

My name is Phoebe Chien, and I am eleven. I currently attend Opportunity Class at Alexandria Park Community School. I am a kind person who cares about people. I listen to my peers and I reach out a helping hand to those who need help. For example, there was this time when my friend couldn't find her lunchbox, since she left it in the playground by mistake, and I helped her find it in lost property, even though it took around 7 minutes. I listen to my teacher meticulously, and I learn as much as possible. I want to be an author who writes fiction books when I grow up, mainly because I have loved reading since I was young. My favourite type of books are fiction, and it helps my imagination grow. My role model is J.K. Rowling, who wrote the Harry Potter series. I have always loved reading Harry Potter, and I keep on wanting to read it again and again. I want to write like her because I want to make sure everyone can access books because they can make us smarter, healthier and happier. They can also mentally benefit underprivileged people. My hobbies are also solving puzzles to test my brain and help it grow, writing and making origami, especially butterflies. Another hobby of mine would be drawing and colouring ~~in~~. I particularly like to draw cute things, like kittens, puppies, pusheens, flowers, and pokemon, since I enjoy marvelling at my masterpiece at the end. Colouring is also fun since I like planning out what colours I will do for my artwork. I like how the colours fit and sometimes even blend together, if I can choose correctly what colour it should be. I use textas, pencils, crayons and watercolour to colour in my artwork. I do not like collaging as it gets pieces of paper all over the place.

Tell Me Why You are Fit for Your Dream School:

My dream school is St Catherine. I am fit for this school because ~~you~~ value honesty, courage, relationships and love in action, which I strive to work on during my day. ~~Your~~ motto, "In Christo thesauri sapientiae et scientiae", meaning "In Christ are hidden all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge", which I can't disagree about. It is perfectly true. I am also special for this scholarship as I am a caring and supportive person. For example, I help my sister with her work when she is stuck on her homework. I also help my family start the floor-cleaning machine. I have helped my friend go to lost property and figure out where their lunchbox was. I have also helped my teacher hand out the classroom books. I have given the book I was reading to one of my classmates who wanted to read it too. I help my family pack the dishes away after they have been cleaned. I also help the family by placing the wet clothes on a drying rack. I also enjoy my lunchtimes reading a book, or helping my friends clean the classroom library. When I am older, I want to help young kids understand the importance of reading books and how much it can do to improve life. There is always room for improvement, and I intend on improving to the peak of what I can attain. I also make a great helper for group collaborations and ideas. I have interesting ideas for things such as fundraisers and group ideas. For example, I thought of the idea for our class performance for the assembly, and although we didn't end up going with the idea of doing an ad, and then one of my classmates mentioned doing an ad for a radio, and then someone else came up with the idea of doing "rickroll". It was kind of disappointing when the next day, our teacher announced that we couldn't do it at the assembly because then everyone would be too hyper.

make your conclusion better with a good lasting impression.

Your writing piece is very full! I really appreciate the fact that you incorporated scenarios and experiences to back up your traits and qualities. However, try not to put as much as you are putting the whole piece off-course. In your second paragraph, add more qualities that could CONVINCE the school to take you in. What else do you have to offer? How does it benefit the school? Always make follow-up questions in your head so you can formulate new ideas in your piece.
