

PART 2: Ethan

First Achievement:

I started playing the cello at the start of Kindy and immediately began to enjoy it. It's a great way for me to express my feelings while playing the music. It can make me feel sad, happy, or angry. Ever since I started, I've been discovering new ways to play the cello and 2 years ago I learnt a completely new style called Baroque music. (1600 – 1700) I suited for baroque and liked it and changed to this new style for a while watching in awe at how my teacher could play it. I practised for a long while, getting a 1st place at St. George Eisteddfod. I am very grateful for to my mum for supporting my practice through my journey but mostly to my teacher for introducing everything I know to me and giving me suggestions on how to get better.

Second Achievement:

I've loved solving puzzles and word problems at a very little age, and for me, it's fun to figure out the clues of a word problem or mystery and then solve it by calculating correctly. Ever since I have been solving harder word problems involving more mysteries with less obvious clues. Reading as has also been one of my hobbies and it calms my mind as a story brings me to a different world. Practicing word problems and reading novels has led to me getting into OC where the environment will only be better with harder work. I couldn't have done this without my parents because they helped me solve puzzles and give me harder ones.

Third Achievement:

I have loved speaking to big crowds, audiences, or just a small group such as my class since I had the opportunity to. Public speaking is one of my hobbies and I like speaking in front of many people like I am addressing something important. Every year since Kindy I have participated in public speaking competitions for my class, and sometimes the grade. I have won multiple times, but I also enjoy taking notes on other winners to see how I can improve. I'd like to thank my sister for giving me creative ideas and giving me support when I was speaking in front of big audiences. I wouldn't have achieved anything without her

This piece was incredibly amazing, it is great to know your characteristics and hobbies.

You can work more on it to make it even better. Add a variety of words/ synonyms, do not repeat a word to make yourself sound eloquent and persuasive.

You may add an anecdote/ role model to this piece. You may talk about what inspires you to be a better version of yourself and whom you look up to get inspiration.

Hope you find this feedback productive, keep up the great work!
