

The school where I fit is Sydney Grammar. Sydney Grammar, as well as and an education and activity school trusts those to have leadership qualities.

The reason I think I belong is, I have leadership and generosity. Even if we don't have the leadership we are all natural leaders.

I have taken many parts part in various activities that require great leadership skills of leadership, for example, being a captain in of my swimming team and those relying on me at school for our projects.

I know what it feels like to be left out. So I help those who are new to our school or those who need help. I am very high {utilise advanced words, use wordhippo to contract this phrase in one word, e.g proficient/ well-versed/ adept etc} in my academics and also very good at sport. I reached the top bands in Naplan, in year three and I'm willing to do so in year five. I also do many sports which include swimming, baseball, soccer and more.

A quote I work towards is, 'Leaders are made, not born.' by Vince Lombardi.

It means to always work working hard to become a leader. They are made by hard effort, which is that price which that all of us must pay to achieve any goal that is worthwhile. And I will always keep this in my heart as I grow up.

You did exceptionally well, and it is pleasing to know the great potential you have got.

But you need to work a lot in terms of sentence structure, rephrasing and clarity of your thoughts. Indeed you achieved a lot and that is great but a proper and well-constructed sentence structure and correct vocab usage will show that you are worthwhile whatever you are talking about.

So, take notes of the suggestions/corrections highlighted above and improve.

Hope you find this feedback constructive, keep up the hard work!
