

Part 2-Thomas Wang:

I believe there are many ways in which I can contribute to my dream private school. I am friendly and can make friends with anyone, especially ones those who are left out. Besides, I already have friends in one of the primary preparatory schools for the high school. I will always help and give my hand to people if they need it. I will support any of my fellow students through any heavy burden. I will even give up on a competition so my comrades would win instead. I will always encourage you to keep going.

You may say that you believe in healthy competition. Giving up does not sound very impressive!

I am also hard-working like the other students in the school and always try my best at every task or activity. I am also interested in many things, and I can sign up for different school activities such as band. I am also very creative and will help greatly in my dream private school.

You need to start with the personality traits you have got that make you unique from the rest.

Mention the achievements you have accomplished on individual/ team members as well. How do you perform in both academics and extracurricular activities?

Elaborate more on what they can expect from you. How can you add value or provide reasonable output that they can count on? You may add a few insights about the skills you utilise to be more productive as a leader or how you implement your strategic thinking, integrity, communication and delegation being a leader/ coach of the teams. This kind of insight will add substance to your response and will exhibit your understanding of what it demands to be a leader.

Hope you find this feedback fruitful!
