

PART TWO:

Snuggled in my blanket, sheltering me from the bone-chilling frost, slapping me in the face as what seemed like blizzards gusted by. While the blazing flames thaw my lifeless body trapped under the spell of frigidness, twisting and enveloping each flame with endless warmth. The snores of weary trees slowly putting themselves to sleep, and the soft growls of grizzly bears could not make me take my eyes away from the majestic flames. I didn't even notice, hidden among the shadows, two glowing monstrous eyes glaring into my soul.

Great job! The work is rich in descriptive terms that fits the whole writing piece very well. Engage more on how you can create longer writing pieces to give more details and bring more clarity to the setting. Keep it up!

Marks (49/50)