

Part 2 By Aaron Wang

offered a scholarship which school? specify
If I am able to achieve a scholarship for this school, I will work hard to achieve the absolute best in all that I do. I will participate whenever I am asked. I will joyously do all tasks I am asked to do as well as many extra curricular activities.

I will also try for a leadership position. I am currently the school vice captain and I hope I will lead this school as well as I will lead my current school. As well as that, I can participate in many extra curricular activities. These include swimming, band and chess. This school has much to offer, and you can be assured I will accept that offer gratefully. That is a bit bold...

It's good to make promises but if these are empty, it won't be a good look on you. Before you declare any possible responsibilities that you will fulfill, show to them what you are capable of so that they will know whether you're qualified or not. That said, you have to list down your strengths and good qualities that will make you fit as a candidate. People cannot just simply offer you a responsibility without knowing your background is. So, you should've started with your achievements and skills before you make promises. Moreover, as for your second paragraph, you need to justify your answer. It's unclear to me whether you've taken any leadership role or not. Based on your answer, you will "try" but never really said anything about having experience. You have to expound and be generous with the information you put. Please apply yourself
