

I am 100% fit for my dream private school, Sydney Grammar. I have received countless academic awards, received 49/50 in The South Australian Spelling Test, and on top of all of that, I contribute to many events that happen at school. I excel and have a strong passion for grammar and literacy, something essential for this school. My academic awards show my persistent effort and knowledge of different subjects, and therefore, I am eligible to go to this wonderful school. I am very hardworking and take pride in my work, and help others become better students and help them understand different things well. I have always wanted to experience army training, join different club throughout the school so I can interact with others, and as Sydney Grammar School has all of these, I am sure that I will have an enjoyable time at the school. I have been in my soccer team for years by being a defender, a supportive important member of the team. Everyone has wanted to score a goal, but I understood what position I am good at, and I have dedicated myself to the team. I have learnt to respect people when they have ideas. I have taken part in many jobs at liturgies, showing leadership and leading mass, and I have learnt to be confident while speaking in front of large audiences. Next year, I want to be a buddy and participate in debating at OC as this significantly helps my confidence and respect for other people's opinions. I can continue to expand my leadership skills to greater heights and learn new and interesting abilities and perspectives that I may have not noticed before. I am from a different culture, so I can teach many other students and tell them things that they previously have not known before. Hopefully I am able to contribute and impact Sydney Grammar and acquire a leadership role at this private school.

Note:

Good job including all the topics and covering them well in this writing piece. So technical lapses are corrected above so you can go over them and make them your guide on how to improve more. Also, it is better that you formulate a flow of your ideas so that it is read comprehensively and arranged well to give more cohesiveness to the work. Nevertheless, ideas are given sufficiently but are not arranged well.

There is always room for improvements!
Marks (47/50)