

Section 1:

#1 (First paragraph): Strengths:

- Strong emotional engagement through Mia's reaction to the news
- Effective use of imagery with "sun ascended from the bottom of earth"

Weaknesses: Issue: Inconsistent Mood Setting The atmosphere shifts abruptly between melancholic and dramatic. "sorrowful frown was stretched across its face" followed by "Mia's jaw loosened and toppled down" creates tonal whiplash. Your metaphors need more coherence to maintain the story's mood.

Exemplar: "Mia woke to find the morning sun casting weak shadows across her room. Her phone buzzed with an alert that made her heart sink: 'Development Plan Threatens Central Park's Future.'"

#2 (Second paragraph): Strengths:

- Clear introduction of supporting characters
- Each friend has a specific role in the plan

Weaknesses: Issue: Character Development Gap Your character introductions feel rushed and mechanical. "William that could capture every aspect in any shot" tells rather than shows their abilities. The friends' reactions need more individual personality.

Exemplar: "Mia turned to her friends: William, whose photography had won local awards; Greg, a business owner with marketing connections; and Sarah, whose social media influence could rally the community."

#3 (Fourth paragraph): Strengths:

- Vivid descriptive language of the park
- Strong emotional connection to the setting

Weaknesses: Issue: Overuse of Figurative Language Your descriptions stack metaphors unnecessarily. "glistened and glowed as bright as a star" followed by "nature nourished and thrived" creates purple prose that distracts from the narrative's impact.

Exemplar: "William captured the heart of the park: children's laughter echoing from the playground, elderly couples walking hand-in-hand along tree-lined paths, memories woven into every corner of this cherished space."

Actionable Task: Rewrite the second paragraph, focusing on introducing each friend through a specific memory or action that demonstrates their skills, rather than simply stating their abilities.

Overall Score: 42/50

Section 2:

Redeeming the Luxurious Park

#1 ~~Weary Mia rose up~~ [Weary Mia rose] from her slumber, as the sun ascended from the bottom of earth. Unlike usual, a sorrowful frown was stretched across its face. Mia unlocked her phone to view flabbergasting news. It read 'New development plan for towering skyscrapers poses a threat to the Central park.' Mia's jaw loosened and toppled down. Infuriation engulfed Mia. Thoughts of loathe for the idea ran through her mind as fast as a cheetah. Bold Mia knew she had to rescue the poor park from demolition.

#2 ~~Mia was determined to save the astonishing park with some of her resolute friends.~~ [Mia gathered her most trusted friends to save the astonishing park.] Her friends were William that could capture every aspect in any shot, Greg was an affluent person that could buy a billboard and also a friend named Sarah with a channel on social media. Mia informed her inquisitive friends on the gruelling problem. Jolts of distress went up their spines.

Greg immediately got to work and purchased a colossal billboard where anyone could view it. An ecstatic smirk stretched across his face. He commanded that the picture of the billboard to be changed to one about saving the beloved central park. The next second, the endangered park ~~immaterialised~~ [materialised] onto the screen. Eyes drifted and glued onto the vivid billboard as it flourished with vibrant colours. As he had accomplished his job, his glasses shimmered and his polished shoes gleamed.

#3 Meanwhile, William was taking exemplary photos of the greenery of the park, the society relishing in the tabernacle, stacked with affection and memories of exhilaration. The play equipment glistened and glowed as bright as a star. The nature nourished and thrived, but if not rescued, could become ragged and destroyed. The only way to remember it would be by the ashes of its remnants. William sent his photos to Sarah and she was in awe when she stared at the photos.

She forged an inspiring and dazzling video, as Mia narrated the video. Both of them prayed rapidly that the video would be a success and the society would aid them in protecting the central park. When uploaded, the views and likes skyrocketed. A sense of fulfillment [fulfilment] swarmed around their heart.

THUD,BASH,CLATTER! The air felt eerie, as fear grew in Mia and Sarah's stomach. They looked out of the window to see a flash mob of crowds, with billboards stating to put an end to this ridiculous plan. Mia, Sarah, Greg and William saw the victory they had accomplished. The plan to eradicate the central park had ended. The jolly, scorching sun shone at the miraculous heroes of the central park. The relieved park gave them a wink of thankfulness.