

Section 1:

#1 Strengths:

- Effective introduction of both the host and guest, creating anticipation
- Natural dialogue flow establishing the context of the interview

Weakness: Inconsistent Name Spelling → The host's name alternates between "Jakie" and "Jackie" throughout the piece, disrupting the professional tone. For instance: "Crazy News Jakie" versus "Jackie: Brilliant..."

Exemplar: "Good morning ladies and gentlemen, this is Jackie Spoon speaking with another thrilling episode of Crazy News, and today we have with us the one and only Steven He..."

#2 Strengths:

- Good use of follow-up questions to maintain conversation flow
- Clear presentation of the guest's preparation methods

Weakness: Redundant Information → The hydration information is repeated verbatim in two consecutive responses: "The next thing is hydration, which is the most important thing..." appears twice, creating unnecessary repetition.

Exemplar: "The most crucial aspect was hydration - I chose coconut water for its electrolytes, which provide energy whilst maintaining proper hydration levels."

#3 Strengths:

- Strong conclusion with an inspirational message
- Effective wrap-up maintaining the show's format

Weakness: Informal Dialogue Structure → The closing segment contains multiple spelling and formatting issues that diminish its impact: "mabey Antarctica" and "thanks you for inviting me" create an unpolished ending.

Exemplar: "Thank you for having me, Jackie. It's been a pleasure sharing my adventure with your listeners."

Actionable Task: Rewrite the interview's closing segment (final three exchanges), focusing on creating a more polished farewell whilst maintaining the inspirational tone.

Section 2:

~~Crazy News Jackie~~ [Crazy News Jackie]: Good morning ladies and gentlemen, this is ~~Jackie Spoon~~ [Jackie Spoon] speaking with another crazy episode of crazy news and today we have gathered the one and only Steven He, who has conquered the unforgettable, undeniable sands of the Sahara Desert. Please welcome Steven He [!]

music #1

~~Steven He: Hi all, thanks you~~ [Steven He: Hello everyone, thank you] for inviting me for ~~today's~~ [today's] news of crazy news

~~Jackie~~ [Jackie]: So we are all here because of your ~~conquerment~~ [conquest] of walking the entire Sahara Desert and we want to know how you did it. Marathons are tough but taking on a whole desert is mindblowing, what created your motivation to run this desert

Steven He: I always want to try new things and you see I had always had a passion for running and walking so when I heard that there is a marathon across the desert, I knew I had to do it!

~~Jackie~~ [Jackie]: Brilliant, would you like to share what you prepared to bring on your trip? #2

Steven He: To start with I started to eat a lot of junk food because that blubber in your tummy, you can use that fat as energy so you can burn it and stay alive. The next thing is hydration, which is the most important thing for your body and without it we will die so I decided to get coconut water because it has electrolytes that are healthy and will give your energy in a healthy way.

~~Jackie~~ [Jackie]: Fascinating

~~Steven He: The next thing is hydration, is the most important thing for your body and without it we will die so I decided to get coconut water because it has electrolytes that are healthy and will give your energy in a healthy way.~~ [Steven He: Additionally, I packed specialised gear designed for desert conditions and emergency supplies.]

~~Jackie~~ [Jackie]: hydration is KEY!!!

~~Jackie~~ [Jackie]: Did you ever feel like you wanted to quit?

Steven He: ~~yes~~ [Yes,] actually around the  $\frac{1}{4}$  [quarter] of the marathon a runner tripped me into the fiery sand and the heat waves were like sitting in a oven but ~~i~~ [I] remembered my place and got up and thought of the reason ~~i~~ [I] came here ~~Jackie~~ [Jackie]: I see, how did you push ~~though~~ [through] these hard moments?

Steven He: i [I] decided to break my goal into smaller parts such as don't stop until i [I] reach the water station ~~e.t.~~ [etc.]

~~Jackie~~ [Jackie]: Awesome, any future plans on a marathon like this?

Steven He: Yes Actually, i [I] am planning to travel the whole Australia and ~~mabe~~y [maybe] Antarctica #3

~~Jackie~~ [Jackie]: Anything you like to say to your listeners Steven ~~he~~ [He]?

Steven He: always follow your dreams and never quit, if you have a passion follow it, and remember, never give up and always enjoy the time you have.

~~Jackie~~ [Jackie]: Thank you for sharing your fabulous adventure with us!

Steven He: ~~thanks you~~ [thank you] for inviting me ~~Jackie~~ [Jackie]

~~Jackie~~ [Jackie]: All right Folks, thanks for joining us for today's episode as this brings us to an end. Always remember to follow your dreams and never quit. ~~Jackie~~ [Jackie], Out. [jingle bells plays] :]
