

Section 1:

#1: First paragraph Strengths:

- Strong opening that establishes the hotel's prestigious status
- Effectively introduces the historical significance

Weakness: Redundant Phrasing → Your writing repeats similar ideas unnecessarily. The phrase "being one" after "most acknowledged luxurious hotel" creates redundancy. Similarly, "this has been one of those places that tourists love" weakens the impact of the subsequent mention of celebrities and royalty.

Exemplar: "Raffles Hotel stands as the world's most distinguished luxury establishment, crowned as the jewel of Singapore's rich historical centre. Since opening its doors in 1887, it has drawn discerning guests, from international celebrities to members of royal families."

#2: Second paragraph Strengths:

- Vivid sensory details that paint a clear picture
- Effective use of architectural details to set the scene

Weakness: Structural Flow → Your sentences follow a listing pattern that disrupts the natural flow. For instance, "The hotel is situated in a big peaceful garden, making it even more lovely" feels disconnected from the previous architectural description.

Exemplar: "The hotel's majestic colonial architecture, with its pristine white walls, commanding pillars, and graceful arches, opens onto tranquil gardens where lush greenery and towering palm trees create an oasis of serenity."

#3: Fourth paragraph Strengths:

- Strong focus on service quality
- Good inclusion of specific details like the Long Bar

Weakness: Unclear Expression → Your phrasing occasionally obscures meaning. "Raffles Hotel retains some magic with insane restaurants and bars" lacks precision and clarity in conveying the establishment's culinary excellence.

Exemplar: "The hotel's commitment to excellence extends to its dining venues, where world-class restaurants and the iconic Long Bar, birthplace of the Singapore Sling, offer unforgettable culinary experiences."

Actionable Task: Rewrite your first paragraph, focusing on eliminating redundant phrases whilst maintaining the hotel's prestigious status. Ensure each sentence adds new information that builds upon the previous one.
