

Section 1:

#1 (First paragraph) Strengths:

- You've introduced the topic clearly with a relatable connection to everyday use
- Your personal stance on white paper shows clear opinion formation

Weaknesses: Topic Development → Your opening lacks depth and fails to establish a compelling hook. Your sentences "A4 Paper is something we use in our everyday lives" and "Well, what's my favourite one?" read as overly simplistic and informal for an academic piece.

Exemplar: "A4 paper serves as an essential medium in our daily lives, from crafting personal letters to creating professional documents. Among its various forms, white A4 paper stands out as particularly significant, and here's why."

#2 (Second and third paragraphs) Strengths:

- You've provided concrete examples of white paper's professional applications
- Your comparison between white and coloured paper demonstrates analytical thinking

Weaknesses: Paragraph Structure → Your ideas about professionalism and focus are mixed together without clear organisation. The metaphor about "canvas" appears abruptly without proper context, and your discussion jumps between different aspects of white paper's use.

Exemplar: "White paper's professional significance stems from its widespread use in official settings. From academic institutions to government offices, its neutral appearance ensures that content remains the primary focus, unlike coloured alternatives that might distract from the document's purpose."

#3 (Environmental paragraph) Strengths:

- You've addressed an important environmental consideration
- Your discussion shows awareness of sustainability issues

Weaknesses: Development of Ideas → Your environmental discussion lacks cohesion and detailed exploration. The statements about recycling and tree consumption appear disconnected, with phrases like "Although it may not be shiny and smooth" introducing irrelevant details.

Exemplar: "White A4 paper's recyclability makes it an environmentally conscious choice. While the paper industry's reliance on trees raises environmental concerns, the ability to recycle white paper effectively helps mitigate these impacts, encouraging sustainable paper consumption practices."

Actionable Task: Rewrite your opening paragraph by creating a more engaging introduction that establishes the significance of A4 paper in modern society, ensuring to incorporate specific examples that demonstrate its importance beyond basic everyday uses.

Score: 40/50

Section 2:

~~What is A4 Paper? A4 Paper is something we use in our everyday lives.~~ [A4 paper plays an integral role in our everyday lives.] For letters, for writing stories, making drawings, and more. ~~Well, what's my favourite one?~~ [Among its varieties,] My Favourite [favourite] one is white coloured, and here's why.

#1 ~~Firstly, it's useful because many people are used to White paper as they use it all the time.~~ [Firstly, white paper's widespread usage has established it as the standard choice for most applications.] So, if someone was reading on a different coloured piece of paper, it would be a little hard for them to focus on it. In fact, the number of ~~White~~ [white] A4 paper being used is skyrocketing compared to other coloured papers.

#2 ~~Secondly, is because of professionalism.~~ [Secondly, white paper maintains professional standards across various sectors.] White paper is used in everything official from offices to schools. ~~Like let us say that you have a canvas, the liquid of the pen and the canvas touching each other will make the writing look sharp.~~ [The contrast between ink and white paper creates clear, professional-looking documents.] Also, White Paper is used for signing legal papers, taxes, and for important government documents. We use the colour, because it looks beautiful and enhances aesthetic appeal. ~~If we used a different colour like red for example, then it wouldn't look appropriate for important things like during an examination.~~ [Using alternative colours, such as red, would be inappropriate for formal documents like examination papers.] The different coloured paper would just make students look at it because of its colour. Coloured paper is usually used for posters. White paper on the other hand, makes people forget about everything else and they just focus on the questions. This shows that the colour white helps making people focus what's on it instead of admiring the colour.

#3 White A4 Paper also helps because it can easily be recycled. Using recycled paper is better as it protects the environment. Although it may not be shiny and smooth, it still benefits the environment, and we should use recycled paper much more often. However, these days, we use paper from trees, and this means that the number of trees is declining. That's why we should reduce the use of paper.

~~In Conclusion, White~~ [In conclusion, white] A4 Paper is the most important paper for most uses in the present world. We should make a judicious use of the paper for our needs. In future, we will likely see more and more use of the digital means, instead of paper.