

Section 1:

#1 - First paragraph Strengths:

- Clear position statement showing your stance on the topic
- Good introduction of main ideas that will be discussed

Weaknesses: Limited development → Your opening claims about "necessity" and "undeniable benefits" need more specific details. The phrases "helping stabilize the world" and "benefits are undeniable" are quite broad and could be more focused.

I strongly believe that rich countries should be required to help poorer nations because their financial and technological resources can directly address critical issues like widespread poverty, inadequate healthcare, and limited education opportunities. This support is essential for creating a more stable and prosperous world.

#2 - Second paragraph Strengths:

- Good connection between resources and impact
- Clear examples of specific areas needing support

Weaknesses: Underdeveloped reasoning → Your argument about rich countries' duty needs stronger backing. The phrase "must step up" needs more explanation about why this is a duty rather than just stating it.

Rich countries have both the means and responsibility to address critical issues in poorer nations, as their advanced healthcare systems, educational expertise, and technological capabilities can help build sustainable infrastructure and support long-term development.

#3 - Third paragraph Strengths:

- Good link between global stability and economic benefits
- Clear connection to real-world implications

Weaknesses: Limited exploration → Your discussion about trade benefits and global crises needs more detailed examples. The phrase "interconnected nature" requires more specific examples showing how nations depend on each other.

When poorer nations receive support to develop their economies and infrastructure, they become stronger trading partners who can contribute valuable resources, products, and services to the global market, creating mutual benefits for all countries involved.

■ Your persuasive piece has a good basic structure but needs more specific examples to strengthen your arguments. You could improve the first paragraph by giving clear examples of how rich countries can help. Also, in your second paragraph, you could explain more about why education and healthcare are important areas for support. Additionally, your final paragraph would be stronger if you showed specific ways that helping poorer nations leads to global stability. Your conclusion could be more powerful by summarising your main points with specific examples rather than general statements. You need to make your arguments more convincing by showing exactly how and why rich countries should help, not just stating that they should. Try to think about real examples of how countries help each other and include these in your writing.

Score: 39/50

Section 2:

Should Rich Countries Be Required to Help Poorer Nations:

~~#1 I strongly believe that rich countries should be required to help poorer nations. Helping poorer countries is not just a choice but a necessity, helping stabilize the world. Helping poorer nations will lead to greater global peace and prosperity, and the benefits to richer countries are undeniable.~~ [I strongly believe that rich countries should be required to help poorer nations. This support is not just a choice but a necessity for creating worldwide stability. Supporting developing nations leads to greater global peace and prosperity, with clear benefits for all countries involved.]

~~#2 Firstly, rich countries have a duty to help address critical issues like poverty, hunger, and disease in poorer nations. Many poor countries simply cannot provide the necessary resources or infrastructure to support their people. Richer nations, however, have the financial power, technology, and expertise to make a significant impact.~~ [Firstly, rich countries have a responsibility to help address critical issues like poverty, hunger, and disease in poorer nations. Many developing countries lack the necessary resources and infrastructure to support their people. Wealthy nations possess the financial power, technology, and expertise to create meaningful change.] They must step up by investing in education, healthcare, and vital infrastructure like schools and hospitals. These actions will help poorer nations become self-sufficient and develop the tools they need to thrive.

#3 Furthermore, helping poorer nations is crucial for ensuring global stability. When these nations grow stronger, they become more valuable trading partners, which directly benefits the global economy. ~~By reducing poverty and instability, rich countries reduce the risk of conflicts, mass migration, and other global crises that ultimately affect everyone.~~ [Through reducing poverty and instability, wealthy nations help prevent conflicts, mass migration, and other global challenges that impact all countries.] The interconnected nature of today's world means that every nation must contribute to creating a peaceful and prosperous environment.

In conclusion, rich countries must help poorer nations, not only because it is the right thing to do but also because it is essential for the well-being of the entire world. The actions of wealthier countries will lead to a more interconnected, stable, and prosperous future for all.