

Section 1:

#1 (First paragraph about helping the homeless) Strengths:

- Shows genuine care and practical thinking by partnering with established organisations
- Demonstrates understanding of sustainable solutions through involving local businesses

Weakness: Limited Development of Implementation Steps → Your response touches on working with the Salvation Army but needs more specific details about how you would coordinate with them. The phrase "structure and programs to establish" could be expanded to outline concrete steps and timelines.

Exemplar: I would collaborate with the Salvation Army to establish a local soup kitchen, creating a detailed 6-month implementation plan including volunteer recruitment, food safety training, and community outreach programmes.

#2 (Second paragraph about shelters and jobs) Strengths:

- Holistic approach considering multiple aspects of support
- Forward-thinking by including employment opportunities

Weakness: Underdeveloped Job Placement Strategy → Your mention of "asking renowned companies" needs more detail about how you would convince these companies to participate. The phrase "perfect jobs catered to each individual" requires more specifics about job matching processes.

Exemplar: We would create partnerships with local businesses through a structured employment programme, offering skill assessments and training to match individuals with suitable positions in participating companies.

#3 (Conflict resolution response) Strengths:

- Shows maturity in approach to conflict resolution
- Demonstrates willingness to find compromise

Weakness: Vague Conflict Resolution Steps → Your description of handling conflicts lacks specific examples. The phrase "flaws in their idea" could be more diplomatically worded and include concrete examples of how you would address disagreements.

Exemplar: I would listen carefully to understand their perspective, then share my thoughts respectfully: "I see your point about X, and perhaps we could combine it with Y to create a stronger solution."

■ Your responses show compassion and good intentions but would benefit from more detailed planning and specific examples. Consider adding measurable goals and timeframes to your community improvement ideas. Your conflict resolution approach needs more concrete examples of successful compromise strategies.

Actionable Task: Rewrite your second paragraph about shelters and job placement, including specific details about how you would structure the programme, what types of jobs would be available, and how you would support individuals through the transition process.

Score: 42/50

Section 2:

#1 With a large sum of money, I would give back to my community through care for our vulnerable, the homeless. ~~I would invest money into~~ [I would invest funds in] benevolent organisations like the Salvation Army, who are already established and have the structure and programs to establish a local soup kitchen. We will reach out to local businesses and chefs for ongoing support and donations of excess food and time to safely reuse into meals to be distributed to the homeless.

~~#2 Alongside the soup kitchen we can develop shelters fitted with health clinics and more to give comfort in times of financial strife combining this with the soup kitchen we still have one more problem~~ [In addition to the soup kitchen, we would develop shelters equipped with health clinics to provide comfort during financial hardship. While addressing immediate needs,] we need to get them back on their feet so by asking renowned companies we have found perfect jobs catered to each individual with good salaries and once they have enough money and confidence they will be able to start a new chapter in their life.

#3 ~~I would first define what determines a conflict.~~ [First, I would identify what constitutes a conflict.] It is usually an argument about opinions people hold dear. I would first make sure we both are clear on what the point of dissension is to ensure ~~its~~ [it's] not a simple misunderstanding or a miscommunication. I state my position in a calm tone, ensuring that the conflict doesn't escalate and ruin the work we were currently doing. Then I would tell my partner the flaws in their idea and say that I respect it but it doesn't work with our topic and then I would give a better idea that shows the best of both of our ideas making sure we each get a fair trade in thoughts.

If you were asked to teach a class for a day, what subject would you choose and how would you teach it? I would choose Archaeology to teach my class, because our ancient structures and inscriptions give us a clue on real world problems. There is so much value in learning about the past. Without the past, what is the future? How will we be able to learn our lessons? How will we remember the great minds used in creating this world? I have chosen Archaeology because it's not just about old times, it's about learning from them and remembering the sacrifices and wisdom held in each wall, each inscription and each painting ~~the reason for choosing all of this is because~~ [I chose this subject because] learning ~~on~~ [about] how civilisations used smart ways to fix problems and how we can implement that into the modern lifestyle.
