

Section 1:

#1 (First paragraph) Strengths:

- Clear introduction of the topic and speaker
- Shows enthusiasm for the subject matter

Weaknesses: Basic Opening → Your opening lacks a hook to grab the audience's attention. "Hi guys" is too casual for a persuasive speech and doesn't create interest in your topic.

"Good morning everyone. Did you know that the simple white A4 paper you use every day is actually an incredible tool that has revolutionised how we work, learn and create?"

#2 (Second paragraph) Strengths:

- Provides multiple examples of paper usage
- Shows practical applications

Weaknesses: Undeveloped Ideas → Your points about paper's uses are listed quickly without enough details to persuade. For example, "white paper is fun to use" needs more explanation about why it's fun and how this makes it the best choice.

"White A4 paper is incredibly versatile - its bright surface makes it perfect for everything from detailed architectural drawings to creative art projects. Its smooth texture allows you to write clear notes that are easy to read, whilst its durability means you can transform it into amazing paper crafts."

#3 (Final paragraph) Strengths:

- Attempts to show knowledge of paper-making
- Includes step-by-step information

Weaknesses: Repetitive Steps → Your instructions repeat the same step about placing wood in a blender four times, which confuses your message and weakens your argument.

"The paper-making process is fascinating: first, specially selected wood is carefully broken down, then mixed with water to create a pulp. This mixture is pressed and dried to create the smooth, bright paper we use today."

■ Your persuasive speech needs stronger arguments to convince your audience why white A4 paper is truly the best choice. You can improve by adding specific examples of when coloured paper doesn't work as well. Also, you could share a story about how white paper helped you create something amazing. Your speech jumps between different ideas without fully developing them. Try focusing on three main reasons why white paper is best and explain each one fully. You mentioned paper airplanes - tell us why white paper makes the best planes! Additionally, your historical fact about The White Paper seems out of place since it's about a different type of document. Instead, you could talk about how white paper has helped students learn better in schools.
