

Section 1:

#1 "Brazil is celebrating all-year round with colours, lights, dances and so much more. Picture this: dazzling bright lights flashing fabulous images in the starry night sky, dancers jumping and twirling in flawless costumes, and everybody gleaming with colour as the magnificent show goes on."

Strengths:

- Vivid sensory details that create engaging imagery
- Effective use of present participles to convey movement and energy

Weaknesses: Lack of Specific Context → Your description remains general without providing details about particular Brazilian celebrations or cultural events. Phrases like "all-year round" and "so much more" make the writing vague.

Exemplar: Brazil's vibrant Carnival fills the streets of Rio de Janeiro every February, where samba dancers in sequined costumes twirl beneath the starlit sky, their movements perfectly matched to the pulsing drums.

#2 "Let's move on to Mongolia with its beautiful big mountains and its humongous, lush plains of grass. Not only do all the humans love it there but I bet the animals do too!"

Strengths:

- Enthusiastic tone that engages readers
- Attempts to connect with audience through conversational style

Weaknesses: Simple Vocabulary Usage → Your descriptions rely on basic adjectives like "beautiful big" and "humongous". The second sentence oversimplifies the relationship between humans and wildlife.

Exemplar: Mongolia's majestic Altai Mountains rise above endless steppes where wild horses gallop freely alongside nomadic herders, creating a rare harmony between humans and nature.

#3 "That is the whole vibe in Ulaanbaatar over the next few days so make sure to give it a check!"

Strengths:

- Creates sense of urgency and excitement
- Direct address to reader encourages engagement

Weaknesses: Informal Language Structure → Your use of casual phrases like "whole vibe" and "give it a check" reduces the impact of your message about this unique cultural event.

Exemplar: Visit Ulaanbaatar this week to witness this extraordinary fusion of Brazilian carnival spirit and Mongolian cultural heritage.

→ Your writing shows creativity in combining two distinct cultures, but needs more specific details about how these cultures actually interact. You could develop your ideas by describing actual events, activities, or performances that demonstrate this cultural fusion. Consider expanding your piece by including examples of Brazilian-Mongolian collaborative art forms or specific festival activities.

Actionable Task: Rewrite your second paragraph focusing on one specific Brazilian performance taking place in Mongolia, describing in detail how it incorporates elements from both cultures.

Score: 32/50

Section 2:

~~Brazil in Mongolia ever heard that before? Boom!~~ [Have you ever imagined Brazil in Mongolia?] Colours are exploding in every direction colouring the craggy cliffs of Mongolia bright red. Brazilian dancers are prancing all over the place ~~keeping the aroma flashy and festive!~~ [filling the air with festive energy!] Come with me and ~~it~~ [I'll] show you how the eccentric Brazilian spirit mashes up with the beautiful scenery of Mongolia and becomes an all-out celebration!

#1 Brazil is celebrating all-year round with colours, lights, dances and so much more. Picture this: dazzling bright lights flashing fabulous images in the starry night sky, dancers jumping and twirling in flawless costumes, and everybody gleaming with colour as the magnificent show goes on. How does that sound?

#2 ~~Let's move on to~~ [Turning our attention to] Mongolia with its beautiful big mountains and its humongous, lush plains of grass. Not only do all the humans love it there but I bet the animals do too! If you happen to be in Mongolia ~~its~~ [it's] all for nothing if you don't visit Ulaanbaatar the capital city of Mongolia. In Ulaanbaatar, the big bright beautiful city is no match for the impeccable views, scenery and nature.

Now after hearing all that ~~Imagine~~ [imagine], fabulous performances, dazzling displays, and bright colours in a vast, beautiful, lush plain of grass with snowy mountains soaring up above the clouds! #3 That is the whole vibe in Ulaanbaatar over the next few days so make sure to give it a check!

If you're wondering why all this is happening [,]well, why not! Nah [No,] just kidding. If everybody was the exact same, then how boring would life be? I think we all know the answer to that. Luckily in our world we have the privilege of all being different and unique which is a wonderful thing, something we should celebrate!
