

Section 1:

#1 (First paragraph): Strengths:

- Vivid description of the entrance hallway's colour scheme and architectural details
- Good use of spatial progression to guide readers through the space

Weaknesses: Lack of sensory details → Your description focuses mainly on visual elements. The massive hallway needs more sensory details like the echo of footsteps or the cool air greeting visitors. The phrase "shocking chandelier" is vague and needs more specific details about its appearance.

Exemplar: As you step into the grand entrance, the cool air welcomes you into a massive hallway adorned in ivory white, where your footsteps echo against the marble floors. Above, a spectacular crystal chandelier sparkles, casting dancing patterns across the delicately striped pillars.

#2 (Second paragraph): Strengths:

- Detailed description of the bed's comfort features
- Clear focus on guest experience

Weaknesses: Underdeveloped room description → Your room description jumps quickly from bed to bathroom without painting a complete picture. The phrase "exotic mattress" needs more specific details. The bathroom description is too brief and lacks details about its features or appearance.

Exemplar: Your single room welcomes you with a plush snow-white bed, featuring a specially designed mattress imported from Europe. The ensuite bathroom gleams with polished marble tiles, offering both a rain shower and traditional tap options for your comfort.

#3 (Third paragraph): Strengths:

- Interesting historical detail about Singapore Sling
- Good inclusion of unique Long Bar tradition

Weaknesses: Disjointed flow → Your writing suddenly shifts from the Long Bar to swimming pool without proper transition. The phrase "thus, on a hot day" doesn't connect logically to the previous content. The pool description feels rushed and contains repetitive information about activities.

Exemplar: Beyond its historic Long Bar, where the legendary Singapore Sling was born in 1915, the hotel offers modern luxuries including a magnificent swimming pool surrounded by comfortable loungers and tropical gardens.

■ Your feature article provides interesting glimpses of the Raffles Hotel, but needs more depth in describing each area. Try to engage all five senses in your descriptions. Add more details about the hotel's colonial architecture, famous guests, or significant historical events. Your paragraphs would benefit from smoother transitions between different areas of the hotel.

Rewrite the first paragraph focusing on adding sensory details and specific descriptions of the architectural features you observe.

#1 ~~As soon as you enter this famous attraction you will be greeted with a massive hallway with a colour [colour] theme of ivory white. The pillars have a delicate stripe pattern and in the middle is a table with grey chairs but above that is a shocking chandelier [an elegant grey dining set, crowned by a magnificent crystal chandelier]. If you move more forward [Moving forward,] you will see a set of black stairs with a carpet made of horse hair from spain [Spain] then transported to [specially imported for] this hotel.~~

#2 ~~After you get the keys to your singles dorm and enter [Upon entering your single room with your key,] you will be greeted with a single snow white bed with a exotic [an exotic] mattress that provides the right balance of support and comfort. It should have a comfortable and supportive surface that will keep your spine aligned and reduce pressure points. The toilet is clean with warm and cold shower if you wish [both warm and cold shower options available].~~

#3 The Raffles Hotel in Singapore is known for having the most attractive and historic allure. The focal point of this bar is the Long Bar where Ngiam Tong Boon, a bartender, introduced the well-known Singapore Sling cocktail in 1915. It has a peculiar custom of throwing peanut shells on the floor. Guests are served free peanuts, and it is part of the enjoyment to add to the crunch beneath the feet. This gin-based cocktail, which is the highlight of the menu and known as the Signature Singapore Sling, is served in tall glasses garnished with cherries and slices of pineapple. ~~Thus, on a hot day [Beyond its historic charm], the only thing that is better than a swim is a swim in their huge pool and fun. For swimmers, wading, playing or even floating, children and adults alike can not [cannot] get bored with so much space to cover in the pool. Every little detail about the pool area has been well considered and taken care of which is why the~~
