

Section 1:

#1 (First paragraph - Hotel entrance and room description) Strengths:

- Clear sequential flow when describing the room layout
- Good use of sensory details about the plant-based lobby

Weaknesses: Lack of Descriptive Details → Your room description needs more vivid details. Phrases like "the bathroom is right next to the door" and "there is the bed" are too basic for a feature article. Missing important details about room amenities and atmosphere that readers would want to know.

Exemplar: As you step into this luxurious room, a spacious marble bathroom welcomes you, leading to a cosy sleeping area with plush bedding and ocean-inspired décor.

#2 (Breakfast and pool section) Strengths:

- Good mention of specific breakfast options
- Links different hotel facilities together nicely

Weaknesses: Limited Engagement → Your writing lacks excitement and engaging descriptions. Phrases like "Now, I shall go down for breakfast" and "after half an hour" make the article feel like a simple list rather than an engaging feature. A feature article should make readers feel excited about visiting.

Exemplar: The morning begins with a mouth-watering breakfast buffet, where fresh pancakes and golden toast tempt you before you head to the stunning oceanside pool.

#3 (Final paragraph) Strengths:

- Good mention of nearby attractions
- Includes practical information about dining options

Weaknesses: Disorganised Information → Your final paragraph jumps between different topics without proper flow. The sudden mention of robots at the end ("As the world gets more advanced with robots") doesn't fit with the rest of your article. Also notice the spelling error in "Nilton Hotel".

Exemplar: While the hotel offers breakfast only, you'll find yourself spoilt for choice with numerous restaurants nearby, from authentic Thai cuisine to delicious Chinese dishes.

■ Your feature article provides a basic overview of the Hilton Hotel Cairns but needs more exciting details to grab readers' attention. You can improve the first paragraph by adding more colourful descriptions of the lobby's plants and room features. Also, when writing about the breakfast buffet, include more appetising words to describe the food. You should organise your ideas better by grouping similar information together - put all dining information in one paragraph and activities in another. Your writing would be more engaging if you add how the ocean views make guests feel or describe the sounds and smells around the pool area. Try using more interesting words instead of basic ones like "good" and "very nice". Additionally, check your spelling carefully to avoid mistakes like "Nilton".
