

INTERVIEW QUESTIONS

1. How has your family shaped the way you approach challenges in life? Can you give a specific example? My family my dad specifically always told me to think sideways and to never give up even if it is difficult. For example, just very recently my bike chain fell of a cog, so my dad said “try to fix the bike chain yourself” so I took a stick and tried to fix it, but it didn’t work. However, I tried again I kept on trying to push the chain up, but it didn’t work. So, my dad told me try a different way. So, I lifted to bike chain with the stick and moved it to the front of the bike and it worked! So, I did it and we rode off to continue our bike ride
2. What is one tradition or habit in your family that you cherish the most, and why? Well, every night at dinner we do something called grateful were we say what we were grateful for today. I really enjoy it because we get to hear about my family's day and if we enjoyed it or not. It also makes me feel happy that I’m not the only one that is thinking about my day.
3. Who in your family inspires you the most, and what lessons have you learned from them? My dad probably inspires me most because when I spend time with him, he always manages to teach me something indirectly or directly. Some lessons I have learnt from him are never giving up, take notes when needed, figuring things out and learning how to talk to people

STORIES

1. In the soft glow of the alien sunset, the crowd gasped at the intricate sculpture, unaware it was created by the one thing they feared most. Mr Golem, as the statue unfolded into a living beast the crowd was frightened and then ran for their life. As Golem watched them cower and run. He walked our slowly and made a mighty roar as loud as a lion and slowly chased the crowd. Meanwhile somewhere in New York, a 20-year-old boy named Don was watching the news and he saw it the big beast. Then he told his roommate Rant, and they decided to evacuate the building. It was too late the Golem had grown. He had grown so big he could climb the Empire State building in two steps. Then suddenly the Golem (not that he noticed) put his foot down on his hand and it and squished it into nothing. Rant said, “go on your own” So Don ran. He knew he had to put a stop to it, so he went to where it all started. When he got there, he noticed a few buttons, so he walked there but the suddenly a cage fell on top of him but thankfully he could reach the buttons. One of them said “if you press this button, it will set the cage on fire but then it will lift the cage. The second button says it will fill the cage to the brim for 5 minutes but then the cage will open. Don new that he only had a few seconds, but he knew the answer and pressed the second button. The caged opened and the world was saved.

2. She felt the ridges of the map she was carving and wondered if the storms below still whispered secrets to those who dared listen. This Adventurer named Sally was staring at the map with shock and amazement. The treasure was hidden in the deepest part of the sea and the treasure was now worth billions of dollars. She decided to look for it but then she realised, she didn't have a submarine. She wouldn't give up though, so she looked for someone that believed in her, but no one aided her except for one person that gave her 10 of the million dollars she needed. However, on one faithful day a rich marine biologist whose name was David decided to help her. So, he hired some men, and they built a submarine but when they tested it, but it did not work. Later, after numerous tries it finally worked. So, Sally and David they went down to the Mariana trench. They went down in their swimsuits and then they found the treasure! Sally was ecstatic she tried to lift the treasure, but it was far too heavy. Sally said she would get a grappling hook and slowly swam to the submarine. However, when she came back David was clutching the treasure in his grappling hook. David grinned smugly and said, "NOW THE TREASURE IS MINE," he cackled. Sally was shocked she couldn't believe her ears! Then crazily the person that offered her $10 took David to the ground and knocked him out. They brought him on the ship and tied him up. As they rose up to the surface Sally proudly put the treasure on the top of the submarine and slid down hapily.
