

Dear fellow citizens,

Prepare to be dazzled because what I'm planning for Glebe Markets will make your jaws drop. Imagine market stalls stretching beyond the horizon. Our food court will feature culinary masterpiece sculptures made by Michelin-star chefs so good that sculptors will resign in a competition against them.

This isn't just any market; it's going to be a spectacular showcase that'll make international headlines. Spark your curiosity by seeing how famous chefs create their signature secret recipes. Watch in awe as acrobats on trapezes do quadruple frontflips in the air. This isn't just shopping; it will be a magical tourist attraction experience. People from all around the world will be booking flights there.

Prepare yourselves, event planners. Prepare yourselves to make a market so extraordinary that it will make video games boring. Video game enthusiasts will venture out of their homes and touch grass, using their five senses like that is a VR video game in real life. Invite an orchestra to enlighten their ears and allow famous artists to sell visual beauty. This isn't just any market; it will be the biggest event that Glebe has ever seen!

---

Dear patient neighbours,

Planning this market is like painting the literal sky with olden-day purple flag dye. Every time I finish making a tent, it collapses. I have to deal with that problem over and over again. The council's paperwork multiplied faster than the pandemic, and I spend four hours a day in meetings, sitting on my office chair. It has been getting too painful sitting for too long. After tons of requests from people worldwide, my to-do list is longer than the Great Wall of China!

Some requests include a human-sized chess match, where actual humans will be chess pieces, and black and white market stalls in a checkerboard pattern can be an individual square.

---

Dear Glebe champions,

Your response to our market mission has been more uplifting than a hot air balloon festival, from chefs creating masterpieces to farmers selling fresh produce – from performances and showcases from various people to tourists who are just having a good time.

We did it! Our market has become the talk of Sydney! You've created memories that will last longer than my to-do list. Organisers and tourists, you're absolutely incredible!