

Section 1:

Part #1

Strengths:

1. Your imagery of the setting with "crystal-clear sky" and "pristine, clean ocean" creates a vivid backdrop for the story.
2. You've established a relatable protagonist in Varoon through his everyday actions.

Weakness: Inconsistent tense usage → Your writing shifts between present and past tense throughout the first paragraph. For instance, "The sun hung in the sky" (past tense) but then "Varoon relaxing" (present continuous) and later "The windows shining" (present continuous again). This creates confusion about when events are occurring.

Exemplar: The sun hung in the sky, casting a long breeze over the town of Kellyville. Varoon relaxed on the soft, luxurious couch while watching the latest Hunger Games film. The windows shone like the sun.

Part #2

Strengths:

1. Your sensory details regarding the bakery experience are quite engaging, particularly "the scent of freshly baked cookies."
2. You've captured Varoon's anticipation and desire effectively.

Weakness: Unclear cause-and-effect relationship → The connection between eating cookies and Varoon's subsequent collapse isn't established clearly. You mention "a slight burst came out of his tummy" and then he suddenly "plumets down," but readers cannot understand why cookies would cause such a dramatic reaction without proper context.

Exemplar: After filling his tummy, Varoon felt a strange rumbling. At first, no one noticed and he tried to ignore it. As he walked carefully to his car, the rumbling grew stronger. He suddenly realised the cookies contained ingredients he was allergic to, but it was too late—his legs gave way and he collapsed onto the road.

Part #3

Strengths:

1. Your attempt to show character development with "Varoon now learned that it is important to take care of his own health."
2. The repetition of the cookie scenario creates a recognisable pattern in the story.

Weakness: Underdeveloped resolution → The ending feels rushed and the lesson learned seems forced rather than naturally emerging from the story. The phrase "Varoon felt like a bee losing his dad" is confusing, and the conclusion doesn't fully address what specifically was wrong with the cookies or why Varoon would eat them again after his first hospitalisation.

Exemplar: The doctor explained patiently, "Your body cannot process certain ingredients in those cookies. You need to eat twice as many nutrients and follow a special diet." Varoon felt devastated as he realised he would need to change his eating habits completely. He finally understood that listening to medical advice wasn't just important—it could be life-saving.

■ Your short story shows promise with its creative premise about a character facing consequences from his eating habits. However, the plot needs more logical development to help readers understand why cookies would cause such severe reactions. The character's motivations require clarification—particularly why Varoon would return to eat the same cookies that previously hospitalised him. Additionally, the medical condition needs consistent explanation throughout the narrative. You could improve your piece by establishing clear cause-and-effect relationships and developing a more believable character arc. The sudden collapses would benefit from foreshadowing, perhaps by mentioning Varoon's pre-existing condition earlier. Also, consider deepening the emotional impact by showing how Varoon struggles internally with his cookie addiction despite knowing the consequences. The resolution could be strengthened by demonstrating a more gradual acceptance of his medical condition rather than an abrupt realisation.

Overall score: 40/50

Section 2:

The sun hung in the sky, casting a long breeze over the town of Kellyville. ~~Varoon relaxing~~ [Varoon relaxed] on the soft, luxurious couch watching the latest movie, Hunger Games. ~~The windows shining~~ [The windows shone] like a sun. As the morning ~~past~~ [passed] by, Varoon was just gazing into the crystal-clear sky with birds continuously flying smoothly. He was just having an ordinary day sightseeing the beautiful sky hanging over the ocean, The pristine, clean ocean began to ripple. #1

Varoon started to head to the bakery. As he walked into the bakery, the scent of freshly baked cookies immediately came to his nose. His tummy had a slight rumble, he knew that he needed those cookies to start off the day. Those scrumptious cookies were being gazed ~~by~~ [at by] the other customers. He even started to drool; he couldn't ~~want~~ [wait] any longer. Finally, he decided to eat them, he munched and crunched them rapidly.

After filling up his tummy, a slight burst came out of his tummy. At first glance, no one saw it and he did not care about it. Then walking gently and carefully to his car. ~~He started to feel a vibration from his tummy.~~ [He started to feel a vibration in his tummy.] He knew that this was ~~big~~ [a big] problem, but still no one noticed. Suddenly, ~~he started plummet~~ [he started to plummet] down from his car on the road. Everyone came to him, cars beeping not knowing what just happened. #2

He started to cry ~~in~~ [with] tears, not because he was hurt but because he was embarrassed. Varoon woke up from ~~terrible~~ [a terrible] night's sleep in ~~hospital~~ [a hospital] bed. Varoon felt hurt but mostly embarrassed and confused. The doctors explained about how this monstrosity happened and why. He was not paying attention. He did not know that if he ate those cookies he would be done. After leaving the hospital, he just relaxed on the couch to continue watching ~~hunger games~~ [Hunger Games].

It was now still lunch, ~~the sun rising~~ [with the sun rising] a little more. He was sleeping comfortably on the bed trying to think of endless possibilities of how he collapsed. He was indifferent from his morning self. As lunch was soon coming to an end. ~~Varoon was thinking of what to eat, then he thought brilliantly that he would eat those scrumptious cookies.~~ [Varoon thought about what to eat, then decided brilliantly that he would have those scrumptious cookies again.] Varoon began quickly running to his car. He joyfully ran to the bakery. Again, with the scent of the fresh, amazing smell of cookies.

He immediately ate and munched the cookies like he was a dog at a dinner table. The moment that the cookie went through his throat, he passed out, ~~his soul left his body~~ [his soul left his body]; he was on the ground like a zombie. Everyone was shocked ~~of~~ [by] what ~~has~~ [had] just happened. The employee harbingered "that he will be taken to the hospital and STAY ~~CLAM~~ [CALM]!" Varoon was now lectured by the doctor about this incident and what he has done. This time Varoon was listening and asked ~~that~~ "So my nutritious level will be twice and I have to eat 2 times more nutrients?" Varoon felt like a bee losing his dad. He was devastated and shocked ~~and~~ [at] the same time. Varoon now learned that it is important to take care of his own health and always listen to the doctor. #3