#1 "Stella and her friend Lily were walking to school when Thud! people who were flying suddenly started plummeting onto the floor, the walking fishes started gasping for water. Stella and her friend Lily were startled." What's happening", she asked Stella. "I don't know but it is probably something bad", replied Stella as she handed Lily a walkie talkie, "Let's go check".

Strengths: Your opening immediately captures attention with the dramatic sound effect "Thud!" and creates a fascinating world where people can fly and fish can walk.

Weakness: Dialogue confusion → Your dialogue formatting creates confusion about who is speaking. The line "What's happening", she asked Stella" suggests someone is asking Stella, but then Stella replies, making it unclear who initiated the conversation. Also, punctuation errors within the dialogue disrupt the flow.

"What's happening?" Lily asked, turning to Stella with wide eyes. "I don't know, but it's probably something bad," replied Stella as she handed Lily a walkie-talkie. "Let's go check."

#2 "Meanwhile Lily had bought all the tools and started fixing the air filters that let people fly. She was professionally trained in doing so, so it took her no longer than a minute to fix each one. Once she had reached the last affected one, she started flying and tried to catch up to Stella who was a tiny figure from Lily's eyes."

Strengths: Your writing shows good use of parallel storylines, showing what both characters are doing simultaneously. You've also included interesting background information about Lily's professional training.

Weakness: Unexplained skill reveal → You suddenly introduce that Lily is "professionally trained" in fixing air filters without any prior mention of this skill. This important character detail appears out of nowhere and feels disconnected from the story's beginning.

Meanwhile, Lily gathered all the necessary tools and began repairing the air filters that enabled flight. Drawing on her technical training from flight school, she fixed each filter in less than a minute. After repairing the last affected one, she launched herself skyward, trying to catch up to Stella, who appeared as a distant speck from Lily's perspective.

#3 "Once the police were done questioning him, they let Stella and Lily and took the man into a flying police car. "Turns out he was a scientist from another world and had a great desire to become rich and famous." said Stella as they walked home ready to tell them all that happened."

Strengths: Your ending wraps up the story neatly and explains the villain's motivation, giving closure to the adventure.

Weakness: Rushed resolution → The conclusion feels rushed with the villain's complex backstory (being from another world with desires for fame) condensed into a single sentence. This important revelation lacks development and impact.

Once the police finished their questioning, they released Stella and Lily while escorting the man into a hovering police vehicle. "They discovered he's actually a scientist from another dimension," Stella explained as they walked home. "He came to our world hoping his sabotage would make him rich and famous when he 'solved' the problem he created." Lily shook her head in disbelief as they hurried home, eager to share their extraordinary adventure.

■ Your story creates an intriguing world with flying people and walking fish, showing wonderful imagination. To improve the content, consider developing your world-building more thoroughly. In paragraph one, you could describe what normal flying looks like before it's disrupted. Additionally, you might expand on how the air filters work and why Lily knows how to fix them. The villain's motivation needs more depth—perhaps he could speak directly to explain his actions rather than having Stella summarise them. Your characters show bravery and quick thinking, but their personalities could be more distinct through their dialogue and reactions. Try adding more sensory details—how does it feel when people start falling? What noises do the broken filters make? These details would make your fascinating world come alive for readers.

Score: 41/50
