

Do you feel that your community doesn't feel safe? Or you don't have anyone to report crime or missing things to? This is why the community needs a police station NOT a new sports complex.

To start off, police help you can report crime. If there wasn't police and someone was armed would you feel very safe? The answer is obviously no. But if there was police then there would be someone to report crime to if you see something dangerous. Tilly was walking down a path a grocery store then she saw someone wrestling a young girl. Immediately she called the police. When they came they arrested the person. What would have happened if there was no police? The girl would have been injured badly or even kidnapped or fainted. If the sports complex was built, what would they be able to do about it? This is a reason why there must be police.

To follow that up, there must be police so that you can report missing things. If you found a missing dog on the streets without a leash and a name tag you would immediately realise that it was probably someone's pet that got loose. If there was no police then you wouldn't be able to report it and the owners would most likely have a harder time finding the dog. However, if there was a police station then the police could investigate further into the case or have the dog at the station and then the dog would be probably be claimed faster. This is another reason why a police must be chosen over a sports complex.

Finally, the last reason why there must be a police station and not a sports complex is because you feel safer. Even if there isn't a crime or a missing thing then you will feel safer if something happens. Rick was walking in the neighbour hood and before they had a police station he was scared that someone would attack him. Now he has the confidence to go outside and have some exercise in the fresh air. This is the final reason why there should be a police station and definitely not a sports complex.

In conclusion, there must be a police station because, you feel safer, you can report missing things and you can report crime. Should there be a police station and not a sports complex? Remember they always say safety FIRST.
